AGGIE ADVENTURES

Dear UC Davis Alumni and Friends,

Tahiti and the other idyllic islands of French Polynesia were formed over millennia; ancient underwater volcanic activity, ocean currents, waves and wind created the emerald-green mountain peaks, chalk-white atolls and beryl-blue lagoons of this South Pacific paradise.

There is no better way to experience the Society Islands than under the billowing white sails of an elegant yacht. During this nine-night land and sea sojourn, explore these resplendent islands, which have beckoned explorers, travelers, artists and writers for centuries. Enjoy two nights (air schedules permitting) in colorful Pape'ete, Tahiti, and seven nights sailing aboard the Five-Star WIND SPIRIT, specifically designed to cruise the crystal-clear aquamarine waters of the South Pacific, which teem with incredible marine life.

Aboard the Five-Star, 74-Stateroom WIND SPIRIT, enjoy unmatched small ship sailing amid the unparalleled beauty of the Society Islands, the WIND SPIRIT's home waters. This intimate ship provides extensive complimentary features, including alcoholic and nonalcoholic beverages served throughout the ship and replenished in your Suite or Stateroom, kayaking and snorkeling equipment and an exclusively arranged excursion on every island; shipboard gratuities are included.

Cultural enrichment abounds in the captivating natural environment of French Polynesia. On the islands of Tahiti, Mo'orea, Ra'iatea, Taha'a, Bora Bora and Huahine, visit ancient marae (open-air places of worship), tour an authentic vanilla plantation and learn more about French Polynesia's unique history, environment and culture. While enjoying the exquisite scenery, snorkel or swim with stingrays, lagoon sharks and colorful fish and inhale the essences of fragrant gardenia and gentle jasmine that delicately permeate the island air.

Join us on this voyage through paradise amid the unspoiled, tropical islands of the South Pacific. Round-trip air is included from Los Angeles[†] and Low Air Add-Ons[†] are available from select U.S. cities. This exceptional program sells out quickly, so book now while space and Early Booking Savings are still available!

Contemporary islanders continue the traditions of their forefathers, farming pineapples and papayas and crafting fine art from seashells and indigenous wood. Learn more about the interplay between the culture and the ecosystem at the Richard B. Gump Pacific Research Station and Atitia Outreach Center. Later, on board the ship, hear an enriching lecture by naturalist Frank Murphy from the Gump Research Station. Enjoy the afternoon at leisure with snorkeling opportunities in Mo'orea's turquoise lagoons.

Ra'iatea

Saturday, February 1

In the pre-colonial era, Ra'iatea served as the political and spiritual heart of the Society Islands and was beloved by Captain Cook, who called here on each of his three voyages. It was the launchpad for the colonization of Hawai'i, the Marquesas and New Zealand, and according to local legend, the birthplace of 'Oro, god of war and fertility. Visit French Polynesia's only UNESCO World Heritage site, the well-preserved marae complex of Taputapuātea (offering from afar), comprised of a cultural landscape and a natural seascape, with the main set of marae—constructed of coral and black volcanic rock—representing where the living world intersects the ancestral world. Aboard a motor-powered outrigger canoe, cruise upstream along the serene Fa'aroa River, the only navigable river in French Polynesia, as it threads through a realm of māpē, pūrau (wild hibiscus) and 'ohe (bamboo).

Gather on deck for a barbecue dinner under the "ash-blue sky alive with stars," as Impressionist Henri Matisse described the Tahitian night.

Ra'iatea/Taha'a

Sunday, February 2

Taha'a is dominated by the profile of Mount Ohiri, named for Hiro, Polynesian god of sailors and thieves. Continued harvesting of the world's most flavorful vanilla beans and the region's distinctive black pearl oysters provides the islanders' livelihoods. Gain a deeper understanding of traditional French Polynesian agriculture as you tour the fragrant grounds of a vanilla plantation, followed by a visit to a farm where lustrous black pearls are meticulously cultivated underwater. Savor a specially arranged beach barbecue lunch on a private motu (islet), where you can also swim, snorkel or kayak.

Bora Bora

Monday and Tuesday, February 3 and 4

Bora Bora is the proverbial vision of paradise with black basalt peaks cloaked in a thick tropical forest and silhouetted against sparkling turquoise waters. Alongside glittering Fa'anui Bay, see the ceremonial site of the Fare Opu marae, adorned with petroglyphs of turtles, a sacred creature in French Polynesia, and look for nearly imperceptible bunkers constructed by American soldiers during World War II.

Visit the glittering ring of tiny motus with white sand beaches surrounding the seldom-visited island of Taha'a, the quintessence of idyll and serenity awash with the soothing aroma of vanilla wafting from secluded plantations.

Indulge in the immaculate beaches, turquoise lagoons and abundant greenery gracing the Society Islands.

The islanders of Bora Bora often wear the traditional and colorful hand-dyed pareo. In the island’s forested interior, villagers cultivate breadfruit, coconuts and taro (an endemic root vegetable); preserve the ancient ruins of stone marae; and show reverence for ancestral Polynesian deities. Observe the art of dyeing pareo and enjoy a taste of the island’s local fruits.

From a lookout point, admire Bora Bora’s highest peak, Mount Otemanu, a natural beacon over the “Pearl of the Pacific”; then enjoy time at leisure to explore the island.

An optional excursion cruises the island’s iridescent lagoon to encounter graceful stingrays and a coral garden where parrotfish, butterflyfish and triggerfish flourish. Dinner Monday night will be an authentic French Polynesian feast held on a private motu.

Huahine

Wednesday, February 5

Idyllic Huahine consists of two islands—Huahine-Nui (big) and Huahine-Iti (small)—separated by a deep blue bay and ringed by a coral atoll. Aboard an open-air “Le Truck,” ride between the ocean and a woodland of towering māpē trees draped with sweet-scented vanilla vines to the settlement of Maeva, the ancient religious center of Huahine-Nui and the greatest concentration of archaeological sites in French Polynesia.

Enjoy incredible snorkeling opportunities in the pristine, sparkling waters of French Polynesia.

In Maeva, see over 10 marae—built in the 16th century of locally quarried stone—as well as former homes and fortification walls. Enjoy the breathtaking vista of gleaming Maro’e Bay and lofty Mount Turi en route to the picturesque village of Fare to see blue-eyed river eels, considered sacred by locals.

After an afternoon at leisure, attend the Captain’s Farewell Reception.

Pape’ete, Tahiti

Thursday, February 6

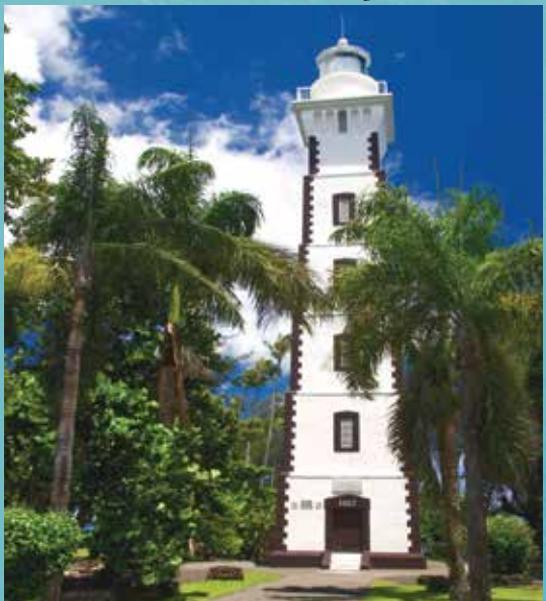

Disembark the ship and explore Tahiti’s East Coast with a visit to the former home of American author James Norman Hall, best known for Mutiny on the Bounty, and see Point Venus, named for the observatory Captain Cook established here in 1769. Day-room accommodations are available in the INTERCONTINENTAL PAPE’ETE. Continue on to the Mo’orea Post-Program Option or transfer to the airport for your return flight home.

Prepare to be mesmerized by Mo'orea's white-sand beaches, serrated peaks, flamboyant vegetation and thriving lagoons.

The Lure of the South Pacific

The turquoise lagoons, wind-sculpted peaks and white-sand beaches fringed with palm trees of the idyllic islands of French Polynesia have been a dreamscape even before explorers James Cook, Samuel Wallis and Louis de Bougainville fell under their spell in the 18th century. Among the last places on earth to be settled by humans, the rich cultural traditions of contemporary Tahitian society are entwined with the legacy of Mā'ohi ancestors, ancient Samoan mariners and European explorers who used the stars, sun, tides and flight patterns of birds to navigate the Pacific Ocean. The most visible remains of ancient Tahitian culture can be seen in its marae.

Seared into the collective consciousness by the paintings of post-Impressionist artist Paul Gauguin, this fantasia of 118 islands and atolls remains steeped in the myths and legends of a polytheistic society. The French Polynesian reverence for nature coexists with time-honored agrarian traditions and preservation. Exalted for their beautiful landscapes and rich cultural traditions, the mystical pull of these halcyon isles is impossible to resist.
